Today's Encouragement

It has been said that you need to set aside time to write - make it a discipline. These are very good words and it is true that building time to write into your schedule will advance your goal of authorship.

I say you need to desire the pen in hand with as much energy as opening a present on your birthday or sharing an evening with a loved one. Passion is a better advocate of your gift!

First drafts
don't have to be perfect.
They just have to be written.

Author offering for your enjoyment

Summer has been a time of reflection. I have gathered together some of my thoughts over the years. They stand the test of time and seem to echo the central part of my life's quest - to find love...

Memories Penned

Please accept this collection of prose and poetry, capturing moments of insight that have found life within my writings as a gift of love. The gathering of imagery combined with the scratch of the quill on parchment, fulfill the moments of grace I have experienced.

This is the scrapbook of my mind and as such takes on no formal story arch but haphazardly spills out onto the pages. I make no excuse for the yearnings of my heart or the unstructured outpourings of my mind. I only know that these moments hold for me an opening to the reason for life - Love.

Love is the doorway beyond the amalgamation of energy and matter, opening up to something more - something beyond. When all else seems to fit into a nice cubbyhole of science explained, love bursts through and imagines life beyond, continuing into forever for a purpose.

May just one of these thoughts from my wondering mind fill your heart and soul with the joy I find in my creator and grace you with the gift of love.

to write is to place love in the hands of generations to come
